

Once upon a time, in the deep forests of a distant land, there lived a little girl named Ela. Ela had a special ability to communicate with the animals living in the forest. Because of this gift, all the inhabitants of the forest loved Ela dearly, calling her the 'Forest Girl.'

One day, while wandering deep into the woods, Ela got lost and couldn't find her way back. Frightened and worried, she looked around, and suddenly, a big bear appeared in front of her. The bear approached Ela gently and asked, "Little girl, why do you look so worried?"

Ela explained her situation to the bear. The bear smiled and said, "Don't worry, I'll help you. But first, can you tell me why you got lost?"

As Ela explained why she got lost, the bear listened carefully. Then, the bear lifted Ela onto his shoulder and showed her the right path. Along the way, other forest creatures joined them to help Ela.

Finally, they arrived back at Ela's home, and her family was overjoyed to see her. Ela expressed her gratitude to the bear and the other animals. The bear smiled and said, "The inhabitants of the forest should always help each other. We are like a family."

After this experience, Ela grew even closer to the forest inhabitants and promised to always help each other. For Ela, getting lost was no longer a fear but the beginning of new adventures.

Days went by, and Ela continued to grow and mature with her strong bond with the forest inhabitants. She became a leader figure in the forest, inspiring other animals with her wisdom and courage.

One day, distressing news shook the forest. Animals from a village deep in the woods had been attacked by wolves, leaving many injured. Upon hearing this, Ela immediately took action.

She gathered the forest inhabitants and devised a defense plan. Together with the bear, fox, rabbit, and others, they united their strengths to stand against the wolves. Their bravery and determination inspired others to join the cause.

When the day of battle arrived, Ela and her allies fought bravely to protect their village. Despite the fierce struggle, they emerged victorious against the wolves. Witnessing the forest's strength and unity, the wolves retreated.

After the battle, the forest inhabitants came together to thank Ela for her leadership. Ela, in turn, said to them, "As long as we stand together, there's no obstacle we can't overcome."

United under Ela's leadership, the forest inhabitants formed an even stronger bond, seeing themselves not just as inhabitants of the forest but as a family. And Ela was revered as one of the most cherished members of that family.

little Red Riding Hood

It is included in the book Tales of Mother Goose by French storyteller Charles Perrault, published in 1697.

@harikasite

CHARACTERS

Little Red Riding Hood

Wolf

Grandmother

Hunter

little Red Riding Hood

Once upon a time...
there was a girl called Little Red Riding Hood

She lived with her mother in a village near a forest.

One day, Little Red Riding Hood
went to visit her grandmother

She took a basket of food with her
On her way, she met a wolf
the wolf asked her where she was going
The little girl told the wolf that she was going to her grandmother

The wolf had a plan in mind. The wolf ran towards the little girl's grandmother's house
Before the little girl came home, the little girl wore her grandmother's clothes and went to bed like her grandmother.

The little girl knew there was a problem because her grandmother looked a little different.

His father's mother's eyes were bigger.
His grandmother's ears were very big.
His grandmother's teeth were very sharp

The wolf was explaining to her and reassuring her, but when the girl asked why her teeth were sharp, she replied that it was so she could eat you easily.

A photograph of a forest path. The path is covered in fallen leaves and branches, leading into the distance. Tall, thin trees line both sides of the path. A bright light source, likely the sun, is visible in the background, creating a strong lens flare and illuminating the scene. The overall atmosphere is serene and slightly mysterious.

The wolf suddenly made a move to attack him.
The girl was very scared,
but at the last moment the hunter came to save her.
The hunter killed the wolf and saved the girl
end

The little boy and his mother were walking towards the library.

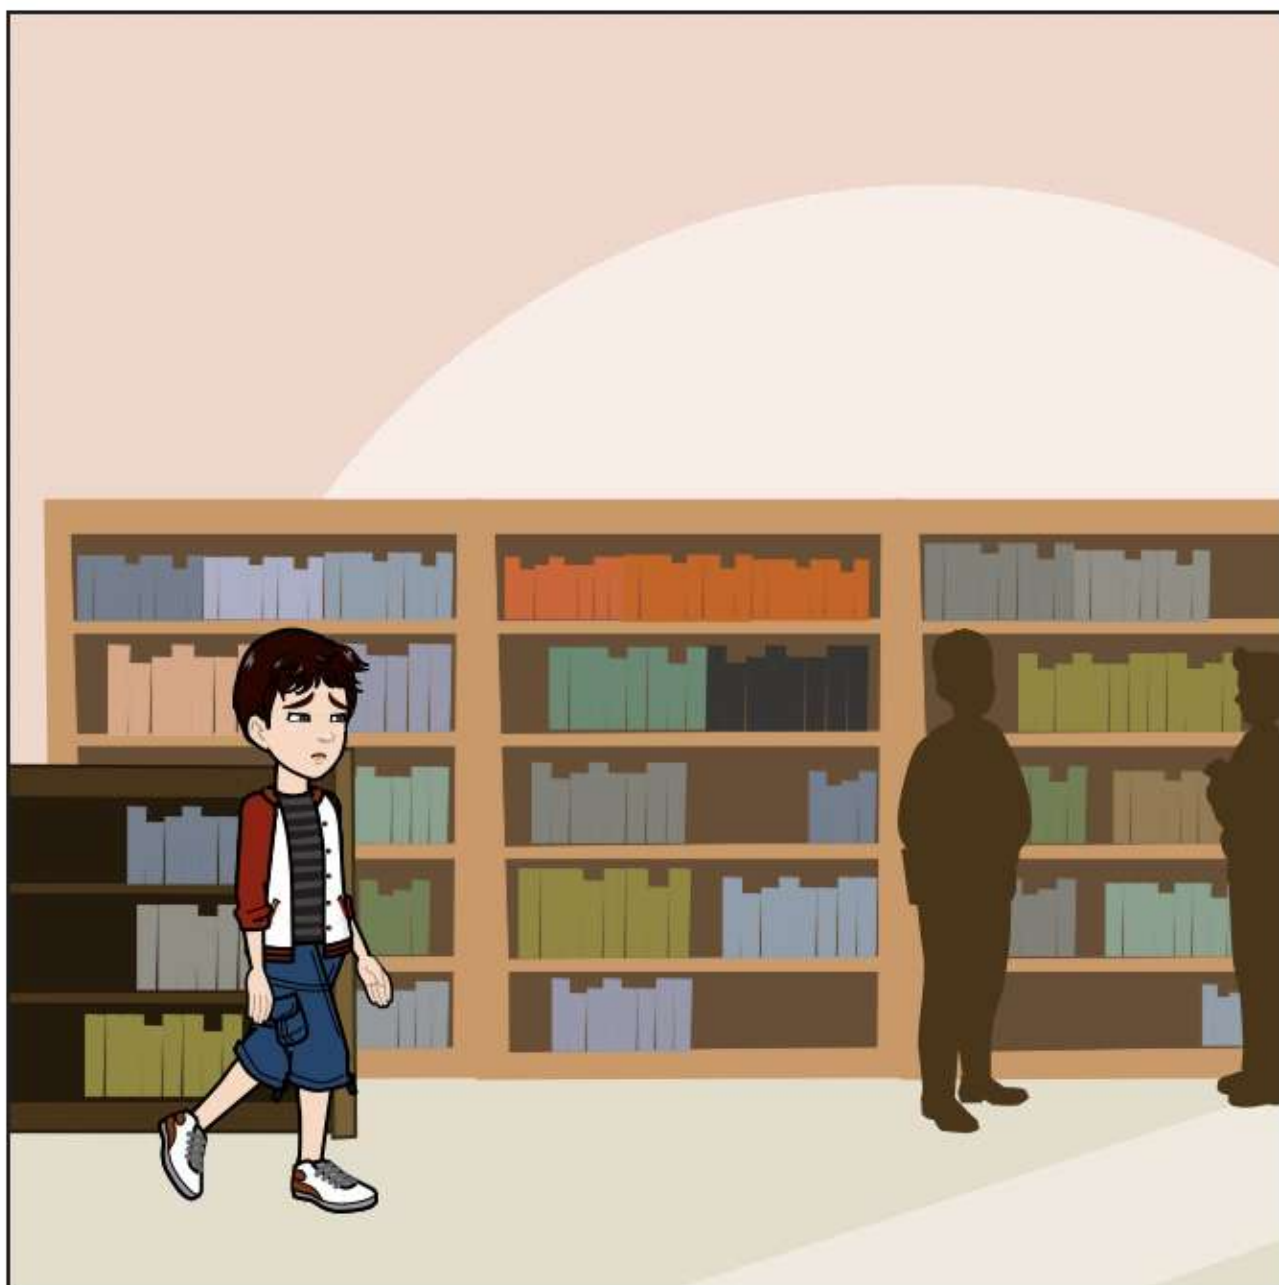

While walking with his mother, the boy thought that he didn't want to read a book.

After a while, his mother the owner of the library started chatting, they told him to go and look at the books.

The boy was browsing through the books, one book caught his eyes.

When he took the book, a package fell out of it. He began examining the powder.

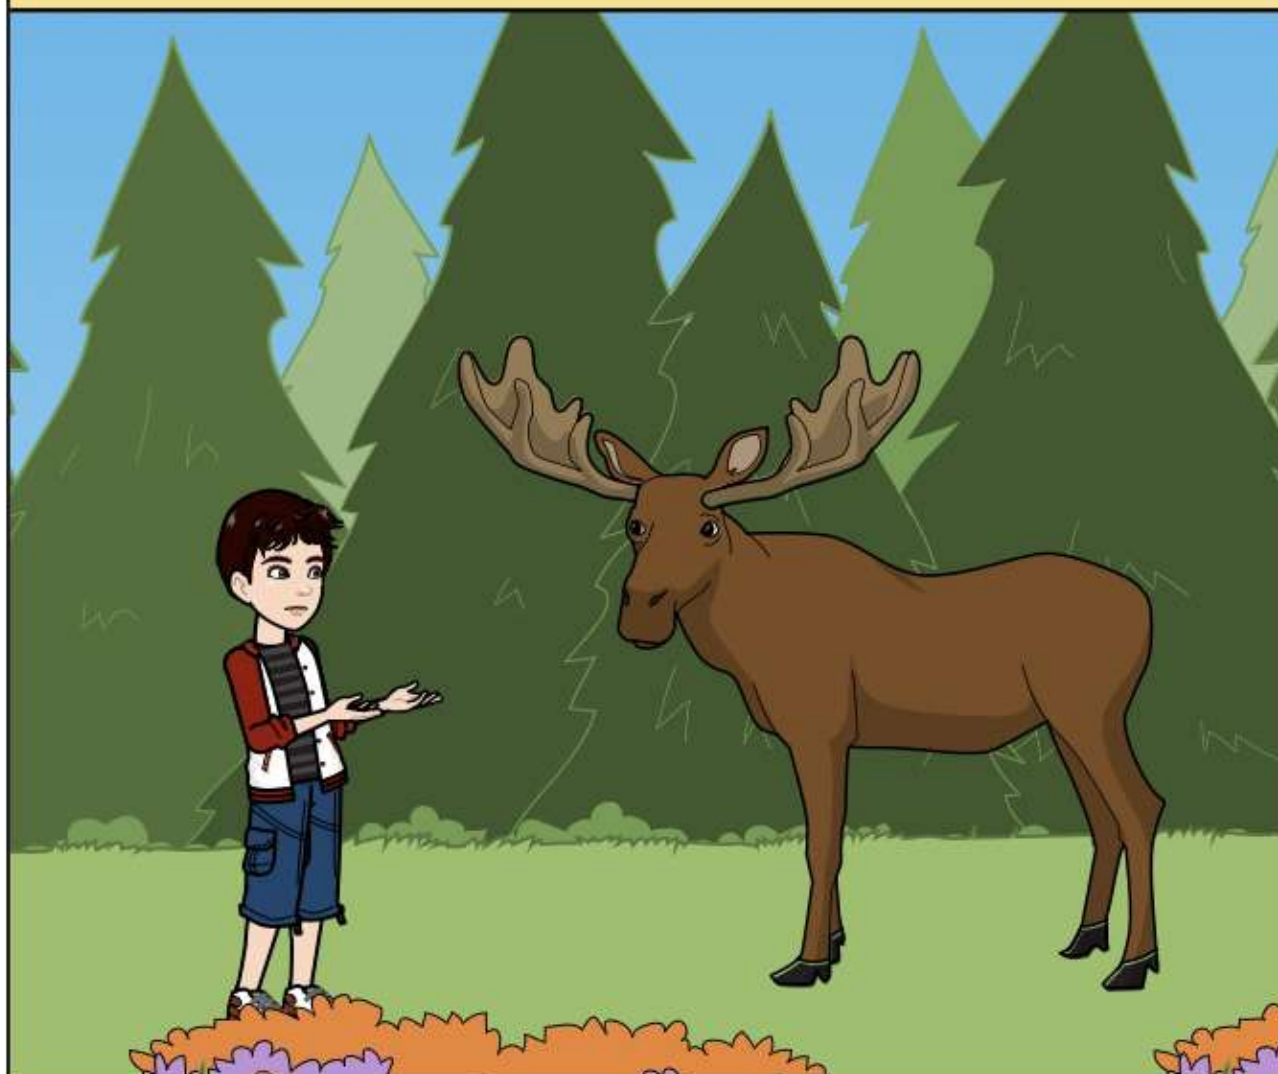

While the boy was handling the powder, the package was opened and purple smoke began to spread into the air.

When he the boy opend his eyes, his saw a deer in front of him. The deer started talking to the boy but boy was shocked.

While they were talking, the boy realized that the deer was very knowledgeable. Meanwhile, crying sounds came from the trees.

They saw a crying pumpkin and when they went to it, the pumpkin began to tell them what had happened to it.

Dear pumpkin, you don't have to do what the people who raised you in a mold all your life say. You don't have to give those people's expectations.

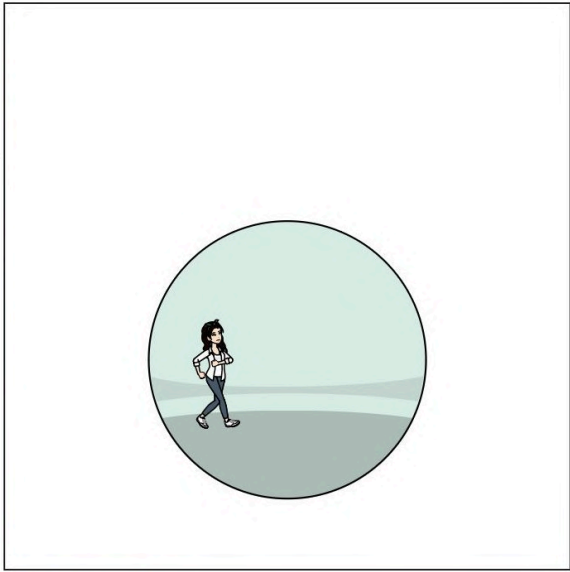

The child suddenly returns to his real world when he realizes what is happening. He thought he should learn a lesson for himself.

And finally realized that reading books wasn't so bad after all.

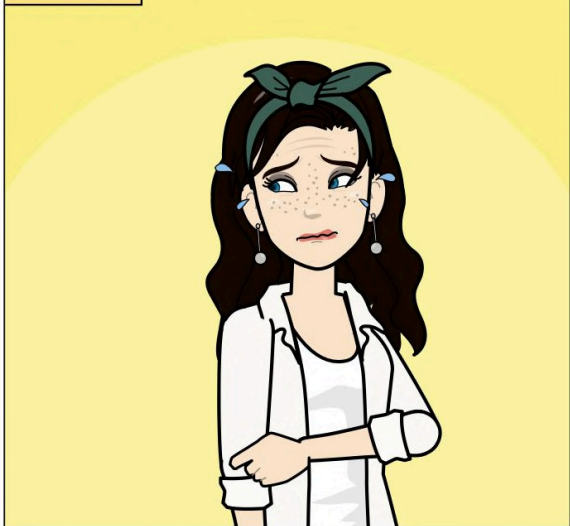

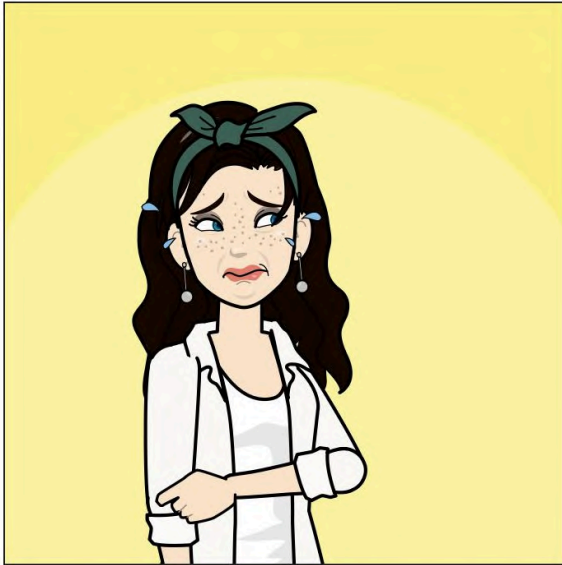

Ela is wandering in the forest

Ela get lost

Finally, they arrived back at Ela's home, and her family was overjoyed to see her.

For Ela, getting lost was no longer a fear but the beginning of new adventures.

One day, distressing news shook the forest. Animals from a village deep in the woods had been attacked by wolves, leaving many injured. Upon hearing this, Ela immediately took action.

When the day of battle arrived, Ela and her allies fought bravely to protect their village. Despite the fierce struggle, they emerged victorious against the wolves. Witnessing the forest's strength and unity, the wolves retreated.

As long as we stand together, there's no obstacle we can't overcome."

